FLAME RETARDANT CONTRACT FABRICS
FOR CRUISE ENVIRONMENTS

Message from our CEO

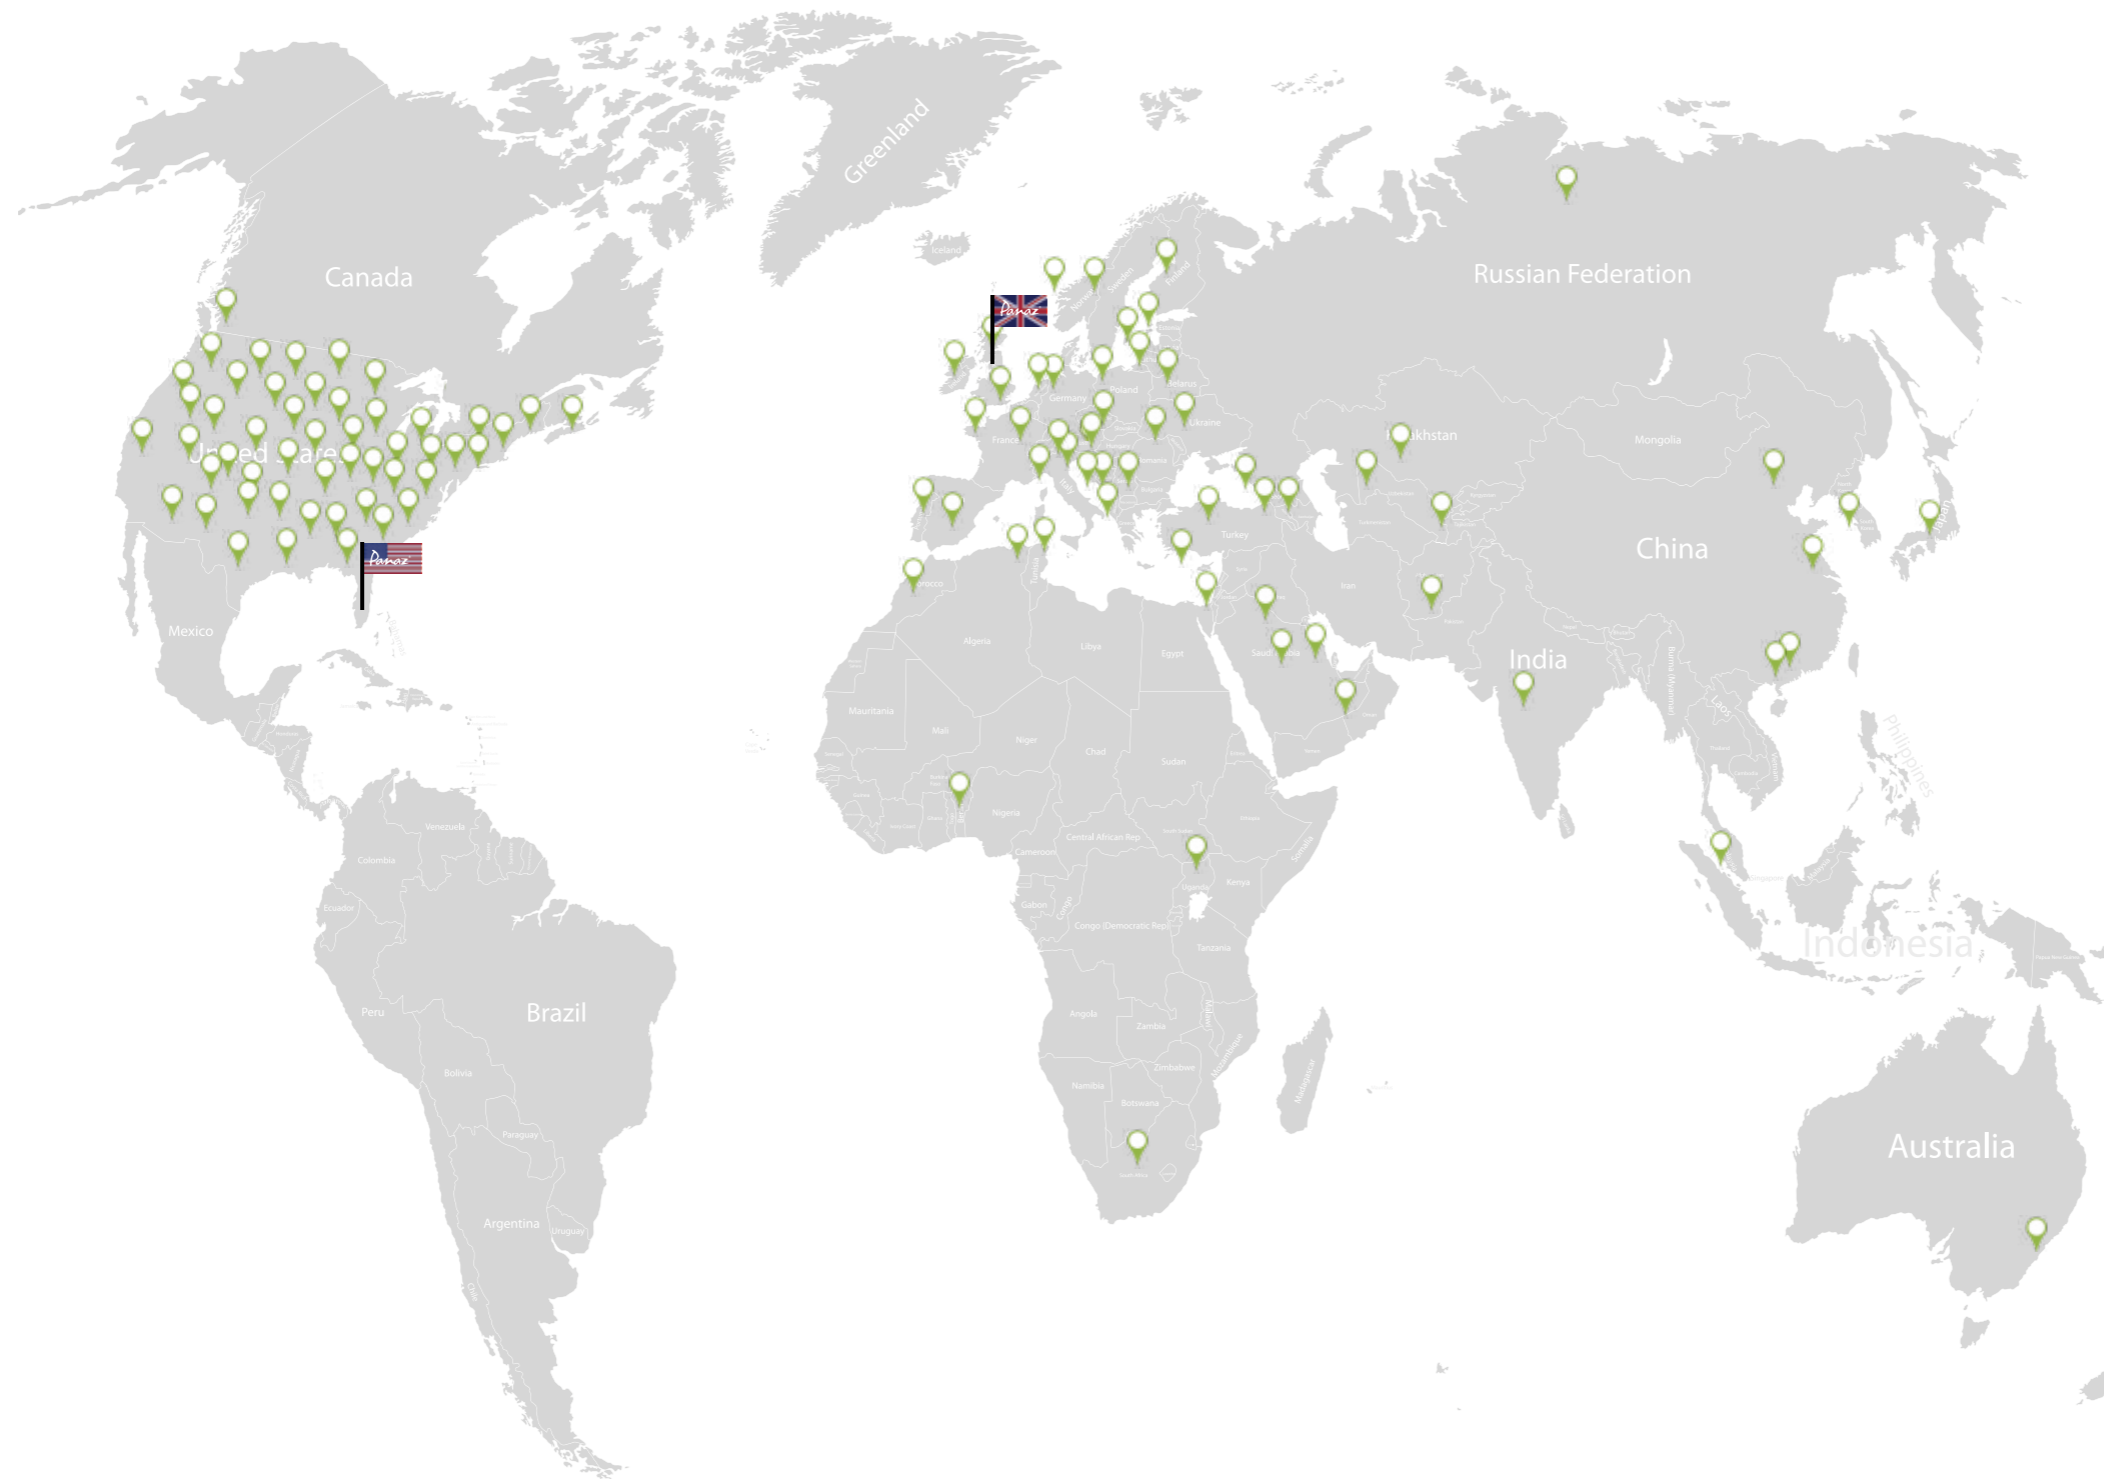

Rollie Attard
CEO PANAZ LTD.

At Panaz we understand that the Cruise and Marine sector is unlike any other, with stringent regulations and compliance requirements you need to ensure that you are dealing with an expert. Panaz are that expert and have been supplying fabrics into the Cruise and Marine Sectors for more than 30 years. Our Cruise line ranges conform to IMO fire testing for curtains, bedding, and upholstery, and many also conform to the MED's Wheel Mark which certifies both product and supplier performance. Whether you're already a customer of Panaz or thinking about becoming one, I hope you enjoy this insight into the business. Please reach out to anyone within the Panaz team with any questions you might have.

Fabrics for Cruise and Marine Environments

With offices and stock holdings in both the UK and USA, Panaz are contract fabric specialists who know what it takes for textiles to last in the most challenging of environments. Panaz have consistently produced great design with performance to match. All our fabrics are tested extensively for resilience against abrasion, FR, stain and water resistance. We even have a market leading solution for infection control, our unique Shieldplus™ technology.

Design and Performance are important to us and that is why we have an in house team of designers and technologists working every day on technical development and great design.

We offer every type of fabric, from prints through to wovens, sheers through to velvets and vinyls through to blackouts. Plus we have all end uses covered including upholstery, drapery and soft furnishings. With over 1000 fabric collections and over 10,000 colourways to choose from we have a solution for every marine requirement.

IMO

International Maritime Organisation (IMO), is a specialised agency of the United Nations. The IMO's primary function is to maintain a regulatory framework for shipping.

One of the founding pillars of the organisation is the SOLAS convention - Safety Of Life At Sea. This sets global standards for fire safety on board ships and provides the testing framework our fabrics need to pass to be considered safe to use.

There are four key tests, depending on end use of the fabric:

IMO 2010 FTP Part 5 – for wall panels and bulkheads.

IMO 2010 FTP Part 7 – for drapery and free hanging textiles.

IMO 2010 FTP Part 8 – for upholstered furniture.

IMO 2010 FTP Part 9 – for bedding components.

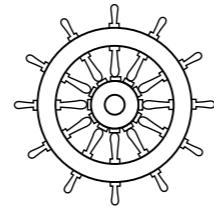

At Panaz we have a wide range of fabrics available within each of these categories.

MED

The Wheelmark

The Marine Equipment Directive (MED), enacted by the European Parliament, is a wide range of quality controls to provide guarantees around the safety of products on board ships. Meeting this directive is essential for products placed on EU flagged vessels, and there are reciprocal agreement's in place with the US Coast Guard – who will also accept the MED's quality mark.

When you see the Wheelmark – as you will on a wide range of our products – it means that both the product and the manufacturer have undergone an extensive range of quality control inspections by an external agency. This doesn't just cover the IMO fire certificate, it covers production methods, internal quality control, technical specifications of each product, and globally is the most stringent inspection of materials being placed on ships.

The Wheelmark is awarded if you pass all aspects of the inspection. Products are awarded a Module B certificate and we – as the manufacturer – are awarded a Module D certificate.

Panaz are one of the few global textile providers to undergo this level of external inspection, and therefore be able to offer the Wheelmark. We take pride in placing the safety of lives at sea and quality control at the very heart of everything we do in this sector.

Curtains

Whether it's a 4-pass blackout to ensure a good night's rest, or a delicate sheer to subtly diffuse incoming sunlight, we have IMO certified drapery options perfect for every aspect of cruise design.

As well as looking aesthetically engaging, our IMO curtains are also engineered to last and retain their appearance, with options for withstanding the toughest of cleaning protocols and the most challenging environments.

Featuring selected colours and patterns, created by our in-house design team, our curtain and soft furnishing collections are designed to pair perfectly with our upholstery ranges. Panaz curtains offer availability across sheers, dimouts and blackouts in both standard and wide-width, providing endless variety to create unique spaces, from employing sheers as subtle room dividers, to creating standout statement pieces with a wide-width feature design.

Upholstery

From cabins and suites, to shared dining and entertainment spaces, our diverse portfolio of upholstery fabrics can fulfil your design and performance requirements.

Comprising of wovens, velvets, faux leathers and printed options across the widest array of colour stories, our cruise upholstery collections are designed to coordinate perfectly with each other and with our curtain and accessory ranges to make selecting a comprehensive design scheme as straightforward as possible.

Panaz upholsteries also boast the broadest spectrum of technical advantages. Born from our expertise of pioneering fabric innovation for over 35 years, our IMO and MED certified collections contain options with antimicrobial, stain resistant, waterproof, light fastness and high abrasion credentials, to help you save time and money on maintaining and replacing upholsteries.

Bespoke Collections

We appreciate that sometimes a client wants to create something unique. Panaz are here to help and can offer a wide range of services including custom fabrics by our in-house design team. We can help you by sourcing a completely new product, or alternatively our online platform ReMake helps you to recolour and rescale existing Panaz designs.

Flexibility allows you to work with our designers to create unique products, providing you with the perfect solution to compliment any scheme and fulfill your clients needs.

ReMake takes custom one step further

ReMake marks a turning point in bespoke fabric design. By putting the ability to recolour and rework any Panaz print design directly into your hands, ReMake lets you express your creativity and realise your vision for the project you're working on. With an easy-to-use layout, designing bespoke prints has never been simpler, quicker or more fun and with options for sampling, you can be sure of your design before you order it. Once you're happy with your creation, our wide range of Panaz basecloths means your design can be printed to suit whatever end use is required, from curtains and blinds, bedding and cushions through several upholstery options. With our sampling service, designs can be assessed and checked prior to order placement.

The free Panaz sampling service is there for you and your client to view before you buy. Contact sales@panaz.co.uk or visit www.re-make.co.uk for further details.

Outdoor Fabrics

Panaz is synonymous with innovation and our outdoor fabrics exhibit the same high performance characteristics as our upholstery and curtain ranges.

Panaz faux leathers and vinyls, which can be used indoors and outdoors, surpass other products in the marketplace. Our ranges conform to industry standards, including flame retardancy, stain and mildew resistance, light fastness and resistance to salt/chlorine water and weathering.

Our fully outdoor ranges offer everything you would expect from us – design led textiles in coordinating colours, made to withstand the toughest environments on the planet. With new collections created from recycled content, we are constantly pushing the boundaries of what's possible from a design and technical perspective, giving you the widest range of fabrics to select from.

Stock Led Programme

Our HQ just north of Manchester in the UK houses our offices, warehousing and production facilities. Everything under one roof means improved communication and quicker turnaround times for our customers.

Our warehouse features a state of the art MED compliant warehouse management system, meaning your order and product can be located and shipped, in most cases, within 24 hours. With over 7000 square meters of warehousing, featuring over 2,000 stock locations, housing more than 1,000,000 metres of fabric, Panaz has one of, if not the largest, stock holding of IMO and MED textiles. We know that the availability of fabric stock is essential to the marine sector and is a key component in being able to deliver projects on time.

Additionally, we are always working on getting you the most efficient delivery solutions so you don't have to wait for your fabric. Whether it's offering DDP incoterms to the EU or offering same day delivery to the UK, or our network of world-wide freight partners make it possible for Panaz to maintain full control of the process, offering the utmost confidence to our customers.
